1. Empowering generations through education & child rights programs

1. Gyansaathi I - Project for the protection and promotion of the basic and environmental rights of rag picking children in the dump yards of Govandi, Mumbai.

Karunya Trust in collaboration with HCDI-KNH started the project in 2011 and in July 2015 the project will complete 4 years. The target area for the project is Rafiq Nagar Part II. The area is at close proximity to the dumping yard at Govandi, with some of the houses almost on the dumping yard. Most of the inhabitants are waste recyclers, that is, they live off the scrap they collect from the yard. Both parents and children are involved in this occupation.

At the end of almost 4 years, we have been able to enroll 300 children to a formal education setup i.e. Private and Government schools. What has been rewarding is that many parents have come by themselves asking when, where and how should their child be admitted. Most parents do not have to be repeatedly told about sending their children to study as they now understand the value of education. This year 4 children who were supported by us appeared for their std. X exams. In the coming year, 8 students will be appearing for their std. X exams under NIOS. In the meanwhile 15 more students will be undergoing coaching for std. X to appear in the following year. These students will be the first in their families to make it to std. X.

Success story

Asif Shaikh is a 17 year old boy. He has been coming to Gyansaathi for the past two years. He lives at Rafiq Nagar with his grandmother, mother and younger mother. His father expired while he was very young. Before he came to Gyansaathi, he had studied till 7th grade and then dropped out. He was working in a garage with a meager pay when we first saw him. It took the outreach worker almost a year to convince him to quit working and start studying. But since he started coming, he has shown tremendous progress academically and otherwise also.

He started off in Level A under NIOS. Today he has appeared for Level B exams. He is the Assistant Prime Minister of Lok Seva Bal Sansad (Child Parliament). He looks into every matter of the Parliament right from its functioning to the implementation of the decisions taken. He pursues responsibilities assigned to irrespective of it is a teacher or a student.

In January during the SCMM 2015 (Mumbai Marathon), he participated in Kingfisher's Costume awards. He was dressed as an anti-tobacco symbol. It was heartwarming to hear him speak. He shared how he was addicted to tobacco. And how his life changed after he stepped into Gyansaathi. He has now quit tobacco. He shared that every child needs a home like Gyansaathi to bloom and live their dreams. He received the second prize winning a prize money of Rs. 20,000/- which he kept for his studies.

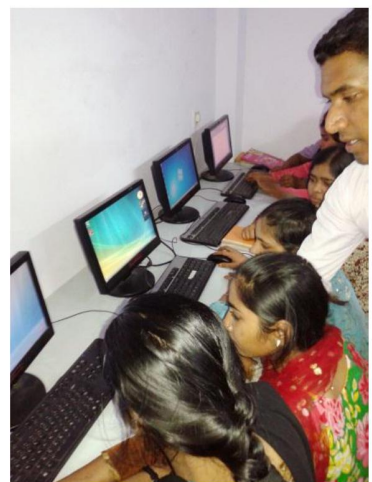

2. Gyansaathi II – Vocational training centre at Govandi: The aim of the project is to provide vocational support to the adolescent children, their guardians or parents and equip them with skills to cope with situations. The girls/mothers have been able to make small earnings from the various vocational trainings done and sold products like rakhis, diyas, paper bags, candles, mehndi, etc. The volunteers from Oracle came in and taught the students envelope making and gift box making. Later the children and some mothers, made more of these products in preparation for the stalls to be put up before Diwali. The stalls put in 2 corporate- Deutsche Bank and Oracle during the Diwali season increased their sales close to

Rs.4000/- The girls even put mehendi at the stall. This was a great beginning for the women and girls to see what others are selling, how they sell and so on. The livelihood aspect through vocational training is garnering more women to these training programs.

The total population is 4,849 people living in 1,034 households consists of two tribal groups, the Thakar (or Thakur) which are in majority with about 72% of the total households and the Katakri is account for the remaining about 28%.The project hamlets are relatively small in terms of the number of the households and population. Since these hamlets are attached to the revenue villages the government schemes do not reach to the hamlets. The area has the presence of bricklins.Many of them are using firewood for baking the bricks. It has led to shrinking of the forests and at the same time the smoke and dust emanating from them has been polluting the area and the health of the people. Lack of knowledge, exploitation by the rich, poor health care facilities, lack of livelihood, environmental deterioration prevents the tribal to access the opportunities available for them.

The aim of the project is to facilitate socio-economic development among the local ethnicities in 16 villages of Ambernath Taluka in order to empower the people to take better care of educational, medical, and nutritional needs of their children. The project is successfully ongoing reaching out to the children and the community through various programs.
